

The roof of the temple was gilded with 1,650 lb (750 kg) of gold

△ REMEMBERING THE FOUNDER

This painting within the temple shows Guru Nanak (center right), the founder of the Sikh religion. His teachings are contained in the sacred text, the Guru Granth Sahib.

▽ OPEN TO ALL

Crowds of pilgrims and sightseers move slowly along the long marble causeway that leads to the entrance of the temple, which welcomes many thousands of visitors every day.

THE TEMPLE COMPLEX

The complex contains several structures. The temple itself is surrounded by the Amrit Sarovar ("pool of holy nectar"), the water in which is said to have curative powers. Other buildings include the Clock Tower, which serves as one of the main entrances; the langar (the community kitchen); the Akal Takht, where the Sikhs' official committee is based; the Sikh library; and a number of smaller shrines.

