

▽ IN THE MIST

The Golden Gate Bridge is often shrouded in fog, particularly during the summer months. There are two foghorns on the bridge, each with a different pitch, and multiple 360-degree flashing red beacons that serve as warning lights for air and sea travelers.

