

Forest pyramids

The Maya of Central America built their own version of the stone pyramid. The El Castillo pyramid rises above the remains of the city of Chichén Itzá, its sides aligning with the position of the Sun at the summer and winter solstices.