

June

11

1959

Historic hover

The first public display of a hovercraft off the coast of the Isle of Wight, UK, achieved a top speed of 126 kph (78 mph).

Also on this day

980 Vladimir the Great was crowned ruler of Kievan Rus', a kingdom in eastern Europe.

1754 Scottish chemist Jacob Black discovered that heating calcium carbonate produced a gas that could extinguish a flame. This gas is now known as carbon dioxide.

1895 In France, competitors in the first-ever motorcar race set off on a 1,178 km (732 mile) route from Paris to Bordeaux, and back.

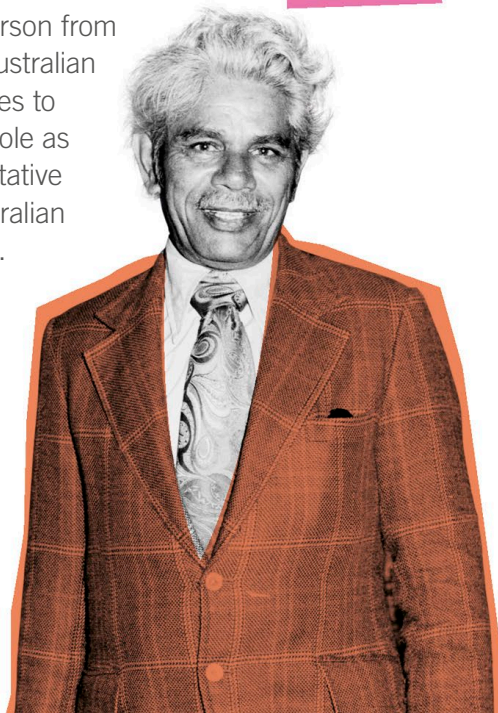

Born this day

1910 Jacques Cousteau, French ocean explorer, conservationist, and documentary maker. He popularized the sport of scuba diving, which uses equipment he helped develop.

First senator

Neville Bonner became the first person from the First Australian communities to take on a role as a representative in the Australian Parliament.

1971

1993

Jurassic success

The movie Jurassic Park, which brought dinosaurs to life, was released in US cinemas. It went on to become the world's highest-grossing film until the release of Titanic four years later.

