

FOOD FIGHT

Squabbles over food, like this fight for a decaying carcass, were probably pretty common among theropods such as Australovenator, Australia's best-known predatory dinosaur. This hunter possessed large claws on its highly flexible fingers, which it may have used as a combat weapon or to grasp its prey.