

STUNNING SCIENCE

Scientists now have a huge range of technologies at their fingertips that allow them to study extinct animals in incredible detail, unlocking the secrets of their bones and even untangling information from their preserved soft tissues.