

Zeus also wanted to punish the people, so he asked Hephaestus to make a woman in his blacksmith's fire. The gods gave her gifts, such as beauty, love, curiosity and deceit. They named her Pandora meaning “all-gifted”.

Pandora receives the gifts of beauty from Aphrodite, music from Apollo and deceit from Hermes.

She was sent to Prometheus's brother, Epimetheus [e-pee-MEE-thee-us]. She was also given a jar, which she was forbidden to open.
