

When Atlas took the heavens back, Heracles picked up the apples and walked away, and went on to complete his twelfth labour.

Zeus was pleased. When Heracles died, he joined the gods on Mount Olympus and he became the guardian of the door to the heavens. ❖

Heracles' twelfth labour was to go to the Underworld and bring back Hades' three-headed dog, Cerberus.

