

Polydectes
held a feast.
Being poor,
Perseus came without a gift

but promised the king a present.

“Bring me the head of the Gorgon
Medusa,” challenged Polydectes.

The Gorgons were three fearsome,
scaly monsters, who had snakes for hair.
Anyone who looked at Medusa’s face turned to stone.

