

Midas returned to Dionysus and begged to be freed from his gift.

“Wash away your greed in the spring of the River Pactolus,” Dionysus told him.

As Midas bathed in the river, the water turned to gold.

However, Midas had not learnt from his foolishness.

