

As Orpheus made his way through the dark kingdom to see Hades, the sweet music he played soothed the screaming pain of the tormented souls.

Hades was angry that a living person had entered his realm, but when Orpheus played his music, Hades wept iron tears.

