

✓ ARMoured DIGGER

The distinctive carapace offers some defence against predators, although armadillos prefer to run away if possible. When digging, the carapace protects the skin from abrasion. Armadillos dig to find food (both plant and animal matter), and to make burrows in which they live or briefly hide themselves.

parts of the body not covered in bony plates
sprout a sparse coat
of long hairs

