

HONEY LEMON MATCHA SERVES 2

TEMP 175°F (80°C)

INFUSE NONE

TYPE ICED

MILK WITHOUT

This iced Matcha tea is as green as chlorophyll. You can use a confectioner's grade of Matcha, which is not as expensive as the higher grades. The honey will add sweetness and the lemon juice will brighten the flavor.

5 tsp honey
1 tbsp lemon juice, plus some lemon zest
2 cups water heated to 175°F (80°C)
1½ tsp Matcha powder
ice cubes

1 Place the honey, lemon juice, zest, and half the hot water in a pitcher.

2 Put the Matcha powder in a bowl and add a little of the remaining hot water. Whisk the Matcha in a "W" motion to form a thin paste. Add the rest of the hot water and whisk until some froth begins to form on the surface.

SERVE IT UP Pour the Matcha mix into the pitcher, stir, and serve in tumblers filled with ice cubes.

ICED SAVORY SENCHA SERVES 2

TEMP 175°F (80°C)

INFUSE 1 MIN

TYPE ICED

MILK WITHOUT

In this iced Sencha, thyme imparts a savory note to the Japanese tea, whose name translates to "infused tea." Ginger provides some spice and gives a slight suggestion of sweetness.

2 tbsp grated ginger
4 sprigs of thyme
2 tbsp Japanese Sencha tea leaves
2 cups water heated to
175°F (80°C)
ice cubes

Special equipment
muddler, or pestle

1 Divide the ginger and thyme equally between 2 tumblers and muddle them, using a muddler or pestle.

2 Place the tea leaves in a teapot, add the hot water, and infuse for 1 minute.

3 Strain evenly into the tumblers. Cool, add the ice cubes, and serve.

TIP For a less diluted iced tea, make some Sencha infusion in advance and freeze in ice-cube trays, and use instead of normal ice cubes.