

18 Likes and dislikes

In English, many adjectives are formed by adding “-ing” or “-ed” to verbs. These adjectives often have different meanings and can be used to describe likes and dislikes.

 New language Adjectives with “-ing” and “-ed”

Aa Vocabulary Feelings and emotions

 New skill Talking about likes and dislikes

18.1 KEY LANGUAGE ADJECTIVES WITH “-ING” AND “-ED”

Adjectives that end in “-ing” describe the effect something has.

Adjectives ending in “-ed” describe how something is affected.

The spider is frightening.

The spider causes fright.

The man is frightened.

The man experiences fright.

18.2 FURTHER EXAMPLES ADJECTIVES WITH “-ING” AND “-ED”

The fireworks are amazing.
She is amazed.

The wasp is annoying.
He is annoyed.

The roller coaster was thrilling.
They were thrilled.

The vacation is relaxing.
He is relaxed.

18.3 CROSS OUT THE INCORRECT WORD IN EACH SENTENCE

I am exciting / excited about the football game.

① This movie is really bored / boring.

② That meal was disgusting / disgusted.

③ Your lecture was really interested / interesting.

④ I'm really thrilled / thrilling about our trip!

⑤ The movie was very exciting / excited.

⑥ I always feel relaxing / relaxed after a bath.

⑦ I'm really shocked / shocking by the news.

