

A NEW DIRECTION FOR CUSTOMERS

“Exciting Business Growth in Electronics Manufacturing in India”

ASYS see India's electronics manufacturing sector undergoing a remarkable transformation, emerging as one of the most dynamic components of India's industrial landscape.

With strong government support, rising domestic demand from a growing population, and global shifts in supply chains caused by international political climate, India is rapidly positioning itself as a global electronics manufacturing hub.

We see the sector having seen impressive growth with major multinational corporations, like Apple, Samsung, and Foxconn expanded their operations in India to position themselves not only for the local market but as well for the region westwards.

Another major market segment for ASYS Group, the automotive sector with players like Bosch, Continental, Hella, APTIV, Hella and Marquardt all expanding their footprint in India.

For ASYS, to be more dynamic and agile in the market, we have appointed a new start-up in India, R M G Electronics Pvt. Ltd., headed by Parvinder Singh, our former managing director of ASYS Group Asia and a veteran in the industry, to help drive the ASYS business to new heights.

Parvinder Singh, MD

After an incredible 28-year journey with ASYS Group as Managing Director – Asia-Pacific, I officially retired at the end of December 2024.

It has been an immensely rewarding experience—one that has allowed me to grow both professionally and personally. Throughout these years, I've had the privilege of working alongside remarkable individuals and building lasting relationships within the Electronics Manufacturing industry, grounded in mutual respect and trust.

As I turn the page to an exciting new chapter, I'm pleased to share that I have co-founded R M G Electronics Pvt. Ltd., drawing upon my deep industry experience and longstanding connections. I am truly honoured that ASYS Group had appointed RMG of Exclusive Distributor for the Electronics market in the South Asia region, effective from 1st July 2025.

I am especially thankful to my former colleagues in India who have chosen to join me in this new venture. Their commitment has ensured a seamless transition, with no disruption to the exceptional service ASYS customers have come to expect. Under the RMG banner, our shared vision strengthens our dedication to supporting customers with excellence and consistency.

With over 35 years in the Electronics Manufacturing industry in total, I am energized to lead RMG, not only in upholding ASYS's brand in the region but in elevating it further—through innovative, customer-centric solutions, and an unwavering focus on customer needs.

This new chapter is not just a business milestone. It's a renewed commitment to growth—for our customers, our team, and the ASYS brand.

I look forward to this journey with passion and purpose, determined to make RMG, a trusted, reliable partner across South Asia region.
