

India's electronics imports fall 7%

India's electronics imports dropped 7% in FY24, thanks to the rising localisation efforts and the government's 'Make-in-India' initiative. Major firms such as Samsung, Apple, Whirlpool, and Dixon reduced imports, focusing on local manufacturing of components such as compressors and motors. The PLI scheme has significantly boosted domestic electronics production, supporting the trend.

Representational image

PEOPLE (on the move)

Pat Gelsinger quits as Intel CEO amid losses

Intel CEO Pat Gelsinger has resigned after a $17 billion Q3 loss. The company, currently undergoing a restructuring plan with 16,500 layoffs, appointed CFO David Zinsner and Intel Products CEO Michelle Johnston Holthaus as interim co-CEOs. Gelsinger, who led manufacturing efforts during his four-year tenure, faced challenges despite restructuring and losses in the manufacturing unit.

strategy, profitability, and internal controls. Previously holding roles at Jubilant FoodWorks, OYO, and others, he aims to support Battery Smart's growth in electric mobility.

David Goeckeler appointed Chair of SIA Board

David Goeckeler, CEO of Western Digital, has been appointed Chair of the Semiconductor Industry Association (SIA) board of directors. With four decades of experience in the semiconductor sector, Goeckeler will lead the board in 2025. He aims to strengthen industry priorities across the US and the world to drive innovation.

Google appoints Mitul Shah as MD to lead Pixel expansion in India

Mitul Shah, former head of consumer sales at Apple India, has joined Google as Managing Director of India's devices and services business. With nine years of experience in his previous role, Shah will lead the Pixel smartphone expansion, focusing on local production and leveraging the rising demand for premium smartphones in the country.

Ravvi Dhyani joins ADATA as the Country Manager for India

Taiwan-based memory module designer and manufacturer ADATA Technology has appointed Ravvi Dhyani as its Country Manager for India. Dhyani, with extensive sales and marketing experience in roles at companies like Acro Engineering and Seagate Technology, will lead initiatives to drive market growth and enhance ADATA's brand visibility across the region.

Amit Bhardwaj appointed CFO of Battery Smart

Battery Smart has appointed Amit Bhardwaj as its new Chief Financial Officer. With over 20 years of experience in financial strategy and risk management, Bhardwaj will oversee financial

Ola Electric's Ashish Thakur resigns and takes new role at TVS Motor Ashish Thakur, former Global Service Head at Ola Electric, has resigned and joined TVS Motor Company as Associate Vice President of Service and Customer Care for their EV division. In his new role, Thakur will oversee service operations and customer care for TVS's electric vehicle business. With over 26 years of experience, he helped build Ola's service department and direct-to-consumer model.

Stellantis CEO Carlos Tavares resigns amid disagreements

Stellantis CEO Carlos Tavares has resigned following disagreements with major shareholders, the board, and differing views on company direction. The resignation, prompted by declining North American sales and growing inventories, led to significant management changes. An interim committee, chaired by John Elkann, will oversee the transition until a new CEO is appointed.