

It is better we patent it first; humans are already working on wall-climbing robots!

Now I know why our sales are zero. Instead of shipping, you have been storing all our storage oscilloscopes here!

You replaced the prayer with recorded songs, installed machines to beat the drums, and replaced the priests with robots—and now this?

Your honour, this robot is my client in this case, and also the opposition lawyer in the same case!

We forgot to install transformers in our power supplies—let's market them as 'transformer-less' power supplies!

Sir, I have a question: how do we catch drunk drivers in self-driving cars?