

35.3 MARK THE SENTENCES THAT ARE CORRECT

The company has made a loss this year. You will get a bonus.

☐

The company has made a loss this year. You might not get a bonus.

☒

Our staff can't use the new database. We might have to provide more training.

☐

Our staff can't use the new database. We won't have to provide more training.

☐

David has over 15 years' experience and he will lead our marketing department.

☐

David has over 15 years' experience and he won't lead our marketing department.

☐

I need your report by Thursday. You need might to work overtime.

☐

I need your report by Thursday. You might need to work overtime.

☐

Anna's laptop is broken. She wills get a new one this week.

☐

Anna's laptop is broken. She will get a new one this week.

☐

There is a pay freeze at the moment, so you won't get a raise.

☐

There is a pay freeze at the moment, so you will get a raise.

☐

If Rita's work doesn't get better, we won't have to fire her.

☐

If Rita's work doesn't get better, we may have to fire her.

☐

We have some meetings in France. You may have to go to Paris.

☐

We have some meetings in France. You don't may have to go to Paris.

☐

We can't hire any staff at the moment, so you don't might get an assistant until March.

☐

We can't hire any staff at the moment, so you might not get an assistant until March.

☐

If your presentation goes well, the CEO might ask you to give it to the board.

☐

If your presentation goes well, the CEO won't ask you to give it to the board.

☐

Tanya has been promoted. She will lead a team next year.

☐

Tanya has been promoted. She will to lead a team next year.

☐

Dev has had a bad trading year. He will meet his sales targets.

☐

Dev has had a bad trading year. He won't meet his sales targets.

☐

Paula always goes the extra mile. She will make a great addition to the team.

☐

Paula always goes the extra mile. She won't make a great addition to the team.

☐