

77.2 OBJECT PRONOUNS

Object pronouns replace the object of a sentence. Most of them have a different form from the equivalent subject pronoun.

Animals love Lizzy.

↓

Animals love her.

"Lizzy" is the object.

"Her" replaces "Lizzy."

There is no difference between direct and indirect object pronouns.

I gave her the puppy.

↓

The puppy loves her.

"Her" is the indirect object.

"Her" is the direct object.

TIP

"You" is the same whether it is singular, plural, a subject, or an object.

HOW TO FORM

SUBJECT
I	we	you	he	she	it	they
↓	↓	↓	↓	↓	↓	↓
me	us	you	him	her	it	them
OBJECT

FURTHER EXAMPLES

I want to tell you that I'm sorry.

"All" can be used to show that "you" is plural.

Sam invited you all to the party.

Dave asked me to go with him.

We're sad that he won't come with us.

It was a very difficult time for them.

Georgia wanted it for Christmas.

