

81.2 RELATIVE PRONOUNS

English uses different relative pronouns to talk about people and things.

81.3 SUBJECTS AND OBJECTS IN DEFINING RELATIVE CLAUSES

Relative clauses are made up of a subject, a verb, and usually an object. They usually start with a relative pronoun, which can be the subject or the object of the relative clause.

HOW TO FORM

If the relative pronoun is the subject of the relative clause, it must appear in the sentence.

If the relative pronoun is the object of the relative clause, it can be left out. “Whom” is sometimes used when a person is the object, but this is very formal.
