

104.3 "TOO" + ADJECTIVE / ADVERB

"Too" can be used before an adjective or adverb to show that it's more than enough.

TOO + ADJECTIVE

That meal was too big. I'm so full.

TOO + ADVERB

This bus is going too slowly. I'm going to be late.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

"Far" and "much" can be used before "too" for emphasis.

In winter my house is far too cold.

Jo takes her job much too seriously.

My coat is too big for me.

Jessica talks far too quietly.

Don't go swimming in the lake. It's too dangerous.

I'm never on time for work. I always wake up too late.

104.4 "ENOUGH" AND "TOO" WITH AN INFINITIVE CLAUSE

In English, "enough" and "too" are used with infinitive clauses. They state whether something is to the right degree or extent for the infinitive clause to happen.

Is this mango ripe enough to eat?

Yes, it's ripe enough to eat.

No, it's not ripe enough to eat.

No, it's too ripe to eat.

