

29.2 CONDITIONALS WITH IMPERATIVES

Imperatives can be used in conditional sentences. The "if" clause describes a hypothetical situation and the imperative clause describes what someone should do if that hypothetical situation actually happens.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

If you feel sick, call a doctor.

If the dog's hungry, feed him.

If the traffic is bad, cycle to work.

If the children behave badly, call me.

Negative
Don't stay up late if you're tired.

The order is reversed, so there is no comma.
Let me know if you need help.
