

15.7 Listen and read.

How many horses are there?

How many horses are there?

To ask about the number of people, animals, or things, say How many.

Add are there at the end of the question.

There are two. There's one.

Say this when there are two or more.

Say this when there's only one.

How it works

Use How many to ask about the number of people, animals, or things there are. Add the plural form of the thing you're asking about, followed by are there.

