

15.9 Listen and read.

Where are the ducks?

Where are the ducks?

Say are when you ask about two or more things.

They're in the pond.

To answer the question, begin with They're.

Then add a preposition, such as in or on, followed by the place.

How it works

To ask about the location of two or more things, say Where are, then add the thing you are asking about in its plural form. We often put the before the noun.

